

BIOSHOCK

THE RAPTURE WIVES

What if A. Ryan and F. Fontaine were successful in their surgeries and genetic experiments and created the perfect Rapture Wives ala The Stepford Wives?

What if you a 50's housewife, have lost your memory, and crash land at Rapture where you must fight your way through the Splicers (experimental victims) to avoid being turned, rescue Betty who hasn't yet been turned, kill the mastermind behind this hell, and escape Rapture?

Start

Crash Land at Rapture

With no memory, you swim to the Tower

Voice of Betty "I don't know who you are or how you got here, but I need your help. There's a madman turning women into beautiful robots. You must kill him, and we can escape together"

Follow Betty's Directions Through Rapture

Ignore Betty and look for your own way out

Legend

Begin Sequence

Decision

Action

Enter the Charity Ball

Betty directs you to enter the remains of a charity ball

Betty directs you to search for a research camera that can take images of past events, as you search through the room you defeat splicers, collect weapons, first aid kits, and social capitol.

Once you find the research camera, Betty asks "Does this feel at all familiar to you? You attended this Charity Ball. Take pictures of your incriminating social faux pas and they will reveal clues to save us and escape Rapture."

Document your faux pas or destroy incriminating evidence

Willingly document your social faux pas

destroy evidence of your social faux pas

